

Old Thacker Barn

This charming bright red old barn in Daniel belongs to Val and Laverne Ellis, located at 3328 South Daniel Road. It was built for Glen Casper, original owner, by John M. Thacker, his brother-in-law. Built about 1930, it had multiple uses - back part for cows, and divided into horse stalls in the front. The hay was stored in the top of the barn. Although the barn had a wooden roof at the time it was built, subsequently the roof had to be replaced when it caved in and now has a tin roof. This series of barn pictures and articles are being submitted by a member of the Barn Again Committee in connection with the Smithsonian exhibit "Barn Again" which will be in Wasatch County for six weeks in the spring of 1988.
